

Photos from the 2015 exhibit of the works of Pietro Belluschi at the University of Oregon art museum showing his sketches for our building.

Sketches by Pietro's office

Photos from the 2015 exhibit of the works of Pietro Belluschi at the University of Oregon art museum showing his sketches for our building.

Photos from the 2015 exhibit of the works of Pietro Belluschi at the University of Oregon art museum showing his sketches for our building.

Photos from the 2015 exhibit of the works of Pietro Belluschi at the University of Oregon art museum showing his sketches for our building.

“It’s such a modest building, on the other hand it has such an heroic quality to it and does the same thing in a modest way that a European cathedral does in a very grand way, the quality that is so important in church architecture, that he did it in a very humble way for a very humble community.”

ROBERT FRASCA

Architect,

“No Perfect Answers: The Life and Architecture of Pietro Belluschi” by Jeff Gianola, 1996

copyright 2012 Lawrence Hudetz

“This respect for craft is the mark of a very superior architect. Belluschi knows that craft itself is not art, but there can be no art, no architecture without craft.”

ALLAN TEMKO
Architectural Critic